

The Teaching Power of Stories

with Bill Harley

Grammy winning storyteller's workshop for all people who see themselves as teachers

Regardless of the subject taught, story is central to how people make sense of the world and build a community with others. In this workshop, participants will look at how stories work in people's lives, what stories define their own lives, and how to use story in an educational setting. Teachers will leave with new ideas for using story in the classroom and a deeper understanding of their work as teachers.
